—Told By The Farmer's Experts—

"SAILOR" BURKE KICKED OUT BY "WILLIE" LEWIS

In Terrific Battle the Gallant Tar Went to the Locker After Six Bells—Almost Double Knockout In Third

Friday the Thirteenth ever was an unlucky day for those who go down to the sea in ships. An old salt never would have put out of port on such an ill-omened day. Two young tars, Sailor Burke of Brooklyn, and Jim Holland, a stoker on a British liner, who always manages to find a fight or two when in port, ceased the stunt at the Fairmont club in New York last night, and both craft went to the bottom. Burke being knocked out by Willie Lewis' broadside in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-round mill and Holland sinking from one of Harry Hutch's lusty wallopings in the fourth round of their expected ten-round semi-windup.

Burke was put away after about a minute's fighting in the sixth round of the fastest fight in New York since Stanley Ketchell dropped Jack O'Brien in their memorable fight before the members of the National A. C. last winter. At the first clang of the gong the men rushed from their corners and began to battle like bull-dogs and from there on till the Pride of Fourteenth Street over his hay-maker and caused the full roll of the doleful decimal to be tolled over the Brooklyn tar, the huge crowd of fight members was kept in a frenzy of excitement.

Toward the end of the first round the Sailor caught Lewis with a vicious short right hook and sent him to the boards. Willie was up in a flash and fought back like a wildcat. In the second round the Fourteenth street fighter sent over a hard right and according to Burke, Donkey who himself made the trip, trekked down from Saratoga to see the big mill.

But Nelson looked 'em over from a ring-side seat, as well as Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter who is hot on the trail of the Johnson-Jeffries bout. There was much betting on the bout, the odds being 10 to 8 on Burke. The Fourteenth street contingent snapped up all the bets on the men from the burg across the big bridge and to the west.

Before the boards were cleared for the main go Joe Jeannette, who will fight Sandy Ferguson at the club next Friday night, settling the matter.

Hugh McIntosh were introduced. It was announced that the Langford-Ketchell bout had been postponed. The scheduled bout, which was to have taken place at the Fairmont club on September 10, instead of September 3, as originally arranged.

Burke's punches in the fourth, sending in his own with the rapidity and accuracy of a sharpshooter. The sailor gradually weakened, and in the fifth the crowd yelled for Lewis to go in and finish him, but the Fourteenth street boy was wary of the mule's kick that the sailor carried in his right hand and wisely kept his head and waited his turn.

It came in the next round, the sixth. Burke tore out of his corner like an enraged bull and rushed at Lewis swinging lefts and rights. Willie sidestepped and as the sailor turned caught him with a vicious overhand right. Burke pitched forward and Lewis got home a short right hook to the jaw. Burke sagged and slowly sank to the floor. He rolled over and the count of four, and crawling to the ropes, raised himself on one knee. Referee Billy Joh got between the men and frantically yelled the count. "Five, six, seven, could scarcely be heard in the din raised by the war-whoops of the wild Fourteenth streeters. "Eight," said Burke, attempted to pull himself to his feet, but sank back again as Lewis menaced him. "Nine, ten," shouted Joh. The fight was won and Lewis' victory was complete. Burke was helped to his feet. The Brooklyn tar staggered across the ring and shook hands with his conqueror, who was smiling like a schoolboy who has just got away with a luscious piece of pie.

A glance at the ring-siders showed that most of the big sporting moguls were at Saratoga. The Great White Way must have looked like a country lane between the hours of 9 and 12 last night. Every racing man, every sportsman, every gambler, himself made the trip, trekked down from Saratoga to see the big mill.

But Nelson looked 'em over from a ring-side seat, as well as Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter who is hot on the trail of the Johnson-Jeffries bout. There was much betting on the bout, the odds being 10 to 8 on Burke. The Fourteenth street contingent snapped up all the bets on the men from the burg across the big bridge and to the west.

JOHN O'ROURKE WOULD HAVE BEEN FAMOUS PLAYER

Brother of Manager "Jim" Who Quit Game Years Ago.

RECALLS OTHER DAYS

Manager O'Rourke, having a day off yesterday, journeyed to New Haven, with his brother John O'Rourke of Boston, where they were interested spectators of the New Haven-New Britain game. In the early 70's John O'Rourke, who was then leading the crack "T. B. F. U. S. team of this city, attracted the attention of the Boston management, and a flattering offer was made him. He soon made a reputation and ranked as one of the cleverest players in the National League. So after this, the reserve clause made its appearance and having some difference with the Boston management, he positively refused to play longer with them, he having been one of the three men named on their reserve list. While playing with the Metropolitan in Philadelphia he made the longest hit ever made on any ball grounds up to that time.

A left hander and sure hitter, a speedy runner and crack fielder, he robbed the pitcher of his hard fought games. To quote Mr. O'Rourke, "the game today is not one shade more interesting or better played than in the old days, when each individual player went into the game for all it was worth, taking every chance without regard to fear for the error column. As for speed, no pitcher of today can surpass the superb work of Whitney of the old Boston team, or that of the one armed pitcher for Providence, and many others in the same class.

"Chance as well as brains entered largely into the success of every player and the sooner he realizes this and sees every opportunity to score the more victories he will add to his credit. Therefore, the out of the game, much to their dissatisfaction and accepted a position in the railroad industry, he has held an honored place ever since. Had John remained in the game, history would have two "grand old men" in baseball to recall, for today he is a well preserved man, one year older than Manager Jim and having a host of friends in his adopted home, Boston. He has been up his residence here and with untiring regularity comes home to vote each year.

LIVE BASE BALL TIPS

Two games with the Papermakers at Newfield today.

The Orators rest tomorrow.

The Giants are even surprising themselves, three straight from the Cubs was never dreamed of.

New Haven and Springfield clash at Lighthouse Point tomorrow.

O'Brien of New Haven has established a record by playing a perfect fielding game for infielders in this league by going 18 games without an error. John Bunyan of this city, best night on the record for this season by going 16 games.

"Hi" Ladd is making a great record in center field, having played that position in the last 33 contests without a slip up. "Coney" Dolan of the Papermakers is right after him, with a record of 32 games.

Every club in the league has enjoyed a spurt this season except the Athletics, who are in the midst of one now, having won five out of the last seven. Northampton holds the season record by taking ten straight. Hartford and Holyoke each having won eight in succession this season.

Pittsburg is to honor its ball players. Over 400 streets in the Smoky City are to be renamed, as per ordinance, the new names including the cognomens of the Pirates, while all the cities in both major leagues are to be included. Wagner avenue is going to be a coming thoroughfare.

How the mighty have fallen. Last year Baltimore and Indianapolis won the bunting in their respective leagues. They are in the cellar position. The same is true in this league, the Springfield Ponies being last in the way to the bottom, while in the New England league, the Lawrence club which gave Worcester such a hard run for honors in 1908 is also in last place.

The Chicago Cubs used up four pitchers against the New York Giants yesterday, but the work of "Bugs" Raymond was too much for them. Joe Tinker was the only Cub who could do anything. He made four hits out of four times up, including a homer, two sacks and a single.

The Cubs will make a strong effort to win today's game sending in Pitcher Ruelbach, who has won 14 straight games. McGraw has Matthewson spotted for work today.

Hartford and Northampton meet today in Hartford. The series between the two clubs stands 8-6 in the league favor. Last week the Larks took four games from the Senators and are due to take the fifth today.

President Comiskey of the Chicago-Americans has announced a big trade with the Minneapolis team of the American Association, whereby the following players go to Chicago: "Yonk" Cy Young, formerly with the Boston and Pittsburg Nationals; Land O'Brien, formerly with the Washington Americans; Pitcher Oimstead, last year with the Chicago-Americans, and first baseman Guile, last season with Pittsburg. The terms included both cash and players.

Tim Hurst is no more as an umpire in the American League. President Ban Johnson announcing his dropping and the securing of Mike Thompson to take his place. Thompson, who is a Waterbury boy, is well known all over the country as a noted foot-

ROBERTSON, DEAN OF OLYMPIC CHAMPIONS, COMING TO BRIDGEPORT

Committee on Comfort to Have Charge of Entertaining Noted Athletes at Big Meet Here Next Saturday is Named.

One of the most interesting of the athletic celebrities who will come to this city Saturday, Aug. 21, to participate in the big athletic meet of the United Irish societies will be the star of the events, Lawson Robertson. He is the dean of the Olympic champions who won laurels for Uncle Sam across the water. It was he who won eight out of 17 first prizes at London, or enough to have alone won the meet for the American team. He has a record of 2.4 for the 100 yard dash despite the fact that he stands 6 feet 11-2 inches and weighs 150 pounds. He is undoubtedly the fastest big man in the world. He was the captain of the I. A. A. C. track team ever since its reorganization as the Greater New Britain team. He is extremely popular with the athletes and the great success of the Irish-American team is largely due to his captaincy. It was Robertson who captained the team which toured Ireland, Scotland and Sweden after the Olympic games, winning the championships in each place against the best athletes those countries could produce.

The committee on comfort has appointed a special committee on comfort and entertainment of guests, as follows: Judge Thomas M. D. Berna, Attorney Thomas M. Cullinan, Capt. Edward J. Joy, Edward Longenecker, Frederick C. Mullins, Capt. James Carey, James Burns, Thomas O'Brien, Alexander Heaphy, Patrick J. Mcball referee. Thompson will work with Jack Sheridan.

But 101 points separate the leaders from the tailenders in the Eastern League. Rochester, the leaders are in the midst of a big climb, the other clubs fast closing in. Between the first and second clubs there is a difference of 18 points, while there is but one point between the last and first in the American Association the race is almost as tight, 125 points between the first and eighth clubs.

Three home games for the Orators next week: New Haven, Tuesday; Northampton Wednesday; and New Britain, Thursday. The out of the game, much to their dissatisfaction and accepted a position in the railroad industry, he has held an honored place ever since. Had John remained in the game, history would have two "grand old men" in baseball to recall, for today he is a well preserved man, one year older than Manager Jim and having a host of friends in his adopted home, Boston. He has been up his residence here and with untiring regularity comes home to vote each year.

MAY INVESTIGATE WATER POWER TRUST

(Special from United Press.)
Washington, Aug. 14.—A prediction that the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy will become the subject of an investigation by Congress or an executive committee is made by the Washington Post today. It is considered likely that a searching investigation will be made into the alleged depredations of the so-called "water power trust." The alleged coal lands fraud in Alaska says the Post, is a sample of the developments that are expected in case of an investigation. They are known in the Land Department as the "Columbia lands," which are valued at $20,000,000. The adjustment of them has been held up so it is said at the Land Office, by the Forest Service.

According to the statement made by a land office official there are 50,000,000 tons of high class coal involved in the case, which, it is alleged, have been entered in some 700 separate entries by "dummies" for certain prominent men unknown to the General Land Office. Neither Secretary Hitchcock or Secretary Garfield would press the matter to an immediate hearing because while the government had the confessions of many of these "dummies," yet its case, it is said, was weak in a legal sense until investigation revealed additional witnesses. After Ballinger became secretary of the interior they were sent out of the Washington office to press matters to a conclusion but according to a statement made yesterday by a land office official, the matter has been delayed.
